

a Keep the learner fixed, change the response sources

Remove five Abraham values and two residual corrections (δ). Retain the two physical energies.

Both models learn hydration from the same experimental labels.

b Compare absolute errors

c Compare the source sets directly

